Supplemental Box

(To be used when the space in any of the preceding boxes is not sufficient)

Continuation of V.2:

1. The closest prior art is known from GB-A-1469533, which is discussed in the introductory part of the description, and which shows and describes a pneumatic thread tensioner.

The problem addressed by the invention is that of providing a thread tensioner of simple design with low air consumption.

The solution is provided by the combination of features in claim 1, especially by the fact that the airstream deflection face is an extension of the interior wall.

GB-A-1469533 and the other search report citations do not suggest this solution, since the claimed combination is not disclosed in those documents. In the absence of an appropriate precedent, the invention was not therefore rendered obvious thereby.

2. The same applies to the further claims 2-13, which concern advantageous developments of claim 1.

Box VIII:

3. Claim 7 does not contain the feature that the deflection face is an extension of the interior wall of the guide channel.
